FOR THE FARMER. VALUE OF RAISING SHEEF.

The high price of woul this year, and fluctuating that it has led the farmers to Aill off their sheep, and just the same results follow that have in years before, they find when wool advances, they have no sheep on hand. We have advocated high prices for wool, advising the tarners if they had any and rould afford to hold it, not to sell. Although there has been a little depression in the market, we still athers to the view, that the woolen mills during the coming season will be large buyers of domestic wools, and we notice the report from foreign markets show great firmness abroad arising from the same caus to that prevail in this country-shortness of supply. Nor do we think, with the growth of business in our country, will the supply for several years to come, exceed the demand for medium grade of wools which are the staples.

The question of graising sheep for their treat is not an unimportant one; with the growth of our country the

the layorit meal, now, and that which brings the highest price is lamb, and most wholesome and palatable of all meats. It is already getting so scarce and high that it has to be purchased only as a laxury by those who can afford it. We have spaked thus far of the defully understood. It is an old proverb, | floated down quite lively, 2 "wherever the food of the sheep touches the land is turned into gold,2 Sheep will enrich land faster than any other land, freeing it from weeds, shrifts and can converse only in German, briars, and bring to it clover and untritions grasses.
